

Dr Maria Barnard is a Consultant in Diabetes, Endocrinology and General (Internal) Medicine and Clinical Lead for Diabetes at Whittinaton Health NHS Trust. She has a particular interest in diabetes with thalassaemia and has published and given international presentations on these conditions. With colleagues, she set up an innovative, interdisciplinary approach to providing specialist care to complex patients with diabetes and thalassaemia. This was recognised by a Commendation at the national BMJ Awards (2014). She co-authored the diabetes guidance for management of diabetes in UKTS Standards for Clinical Care (2016). Dr Barnard holds an Honorary Associate Professor appointment with UCL.
