

Dr Paul Telfer is clinical lead for Haemoglobinopathy services at Bart's Health NHS Trust and the East London and Essex Clinical Haemoglobinopathy Network. He is committee member of the National Specialist Commissioning in Haemoglobinopathies, and the National Sickle Cell and Thalassaemia Screening Programmes. He has co-authored national guidelines for management of children and adults with sickle cell disease, and for thalassaemia and is co-author of 'Sickle Cell Disease in Clinical Practice' published by Springer. He is chief investigator for the SCAPE trial, the East London Newborn Sickle Cell Cohort Study and Cyprus Thalassaemia Cohort study.