

Maria Pelidis MD, Consultant Paediatric Haematologist/Oncologist, Evelina London Children's Hospital. Dr Pelidis earned her medical degree from Harvard Medical School, completed a residency in Paediatrics at Children's Hospital of Philadelphia, and a fellowship in paediatric haematology and oncology at Johns Hopkins Hospital. She then worked at the Floating Hospital for Children and was an Assistant Professor of Paediatrics at Tufts University Medical School until 2009 when she moved to London to work as a consultant at the Royal Marsden Hospital and St George's Hospital. Dr Pelidis's She is currently a consultant in Paediatric Haematology at the Evelina Children's Hospital in London and her clinical interests include haemoglobinopathies, iron overload, iron deficiency, primary immune thrombocytopenia, leukaemias, bleeding disorders and bone marrow failure. She leads the transition clinic for haemoglobinopathy patients and has an interest the management of iron overload in children and young people with haematological conditions.